

From: Jim Hollingsworth
To: Chris Fillios; Bob Bingham; Marc Eberlein
Subject: building permits
Date: Monday, January 29, 2018 6:37:08 AM

Dear Commissioners,

Everyone ought to be free to build a building. You even need a permit to tear one down and clean up the mess. If someone brings in a set of plans drawn by an engineer or an architect they still have to pay for plan review. This seems ridiculous since the engineer knows far more than the one doing the plan review. For more discussion see the link below.

Thanks

Jim Hollingsworth

jimhollingsworth@frontier.com

https://www.facebook.com/tim.kastning.7/posts/10211073655303980?comment_id=10211083623553180&reply_comment_id=10211083937961040

Brent Regan Do you need a county permit and inspections to prepare food for your family? Do you need a county permit and inspections to repair or modify your car? Do you need a county permit and inspections to build and fly an airplane? Do you need a county permit and inspections to plant and harvest a garden? Why are you forced to get a county permit and inspections to build your house?

Gordy Ormesher Selling a home without a CO is not a problem.

If the lenders inspector finds a defect, it's brought up to their standard to loan, probably by the seller, or the property is discounted and escrowed to cover the cost to bring it to the lenders standard,...See More

Manage

LikeShow more reactions

· Reply · 3h